Ramiro Diaz Sanchez, a Mexican citizen working here at KUMC, and Andrew Winegarner, a first-year medical student, were recently introduced through Global Connections. They have established a strong friendship and try to meet twice a week in order to exchange language and culture lessons, and talk about current events and common interests. Despite coming from very different backgrounds and having very different life experiences, Andrew and Ramiro have been able to bond over a shared sense of humor and curiosity about the world. To join, please contact zrogers2@kumc.edu for more information.

International Education Week – THANK YOU
The Office of International Programs was elated to have such a phenomenal turn-out during International Education Week. If it were not for the contributions of our students, faculty and staff, both international and domestic alike, our events would not have been as spectacular, our impact would have been minimal and our week would have been significantly less impressive. Thank you, kindly, to all who participated in our special week.—Sincerely, The Office of International Programs
